

Dear Friends and colleagues,

As members of Feco we have to be aware that our freedom of opinion should not be attacked in spite of the changing political situations in the Middle-East.

Recently I read a chapter out of the book : "On the way to Mekka" of the Belgian reporter Jan Leyers, in which he never took a clear stand. I quote: " Cartoonist Musa Kart, had the yellow complexion of someone who never experiences the daylight.

He had a fresh piece of paper in front of him and he was about to start a daily drawing. With one of his cartoons Kart had reached the West-European press in spring 2004. I saw it in my own newspaper: " Premier Erdogan who like a cat entangled in a ball of wool "

Musa Kart explained: " I made this cartoon in a period that Erdogan did his best to keep "The Imam Hatip-schools" to get more freedom. In the meanwhile, he stood under pressure of the secular part of the country.

He was always standing on a fence fluctuating from one side to the other. Erdogan had prosecuted the cartoonist on behalf of the law that forbids people to insult the Turkish state.

Musa Kart was condemned to pay a fine of 2800 euro." Erdogan and his party has "two faces" the cartoonist said. "Towards Europe he defends the right of freedom of speech" but here, he can't stand that someone is critical or sarcastic.

This condemnation roused the indignation of secular part of the population. Musa Kart's colleagues stood as one man behind him and he laughed. As he suddenly saw the drawings of Erdogan everywhere. As a cat, a giraffe, an elephant etc.

Musa Kart was acquitted in higher law court. I took the drawing and said : " In Belgium, " this cartoon would be harmless!"

Musa Kart said: "I realise that ! But the Islamic culture has always been reluctant with normal drawings, never mind cartoons!

He lit a cigarette and seized his pencil! End of this quote! This article was written, years ago but it is still valid. Even in Europe, freedom of speech has been compromised and the pressure of spontaneous expression grows, censorship and condemnations increase. Think about it!
